THE REPUBLICAN SITUATION. It is true in politics as well as in war that to be on the side of aggression has a double advantage over the side of defact in bad luck, when it is forced to put | rhythm-that the democrats talk of givitself on the defensive as the under dog in a fight. Our democratic friends have been fighting these kinds of battles for years, and that is why they have always been soundly licked. Were the republicans to put themselves on the defensive on the educational law, or lend themselves to an un-American compromise on the essential features of the law, they would throw themselves into the political soup next fall. The only way te do honor to the cause of education and to march on to victory, is to make a vigorous fight for the American state, for the education and useful citizenship of the rising generation. One quite prominent republican said in Milwaukee the other day, on the question of Governor Hoard's backing down on a renomination or being pushed aside: "The governor has no more intention of withdrawing than he has of laying wires for a renomination, which is the very last thing he would do. On the other hand the socalled leaders of the party have rot now and never had the slightest intention of shelving him. No, sir. Governor Hoard will be renominated and what is more will be re-elected

The republican party is never more dangerous than when facing an overwhelming majority on the other side. That was illustrated in the magnificent campaign of two years ago in this Milwankee district, which ended in the election of Congressman Van Scheick. There state that believed the district could be carried when Chairman Payne opened the fight, but it was, and democrats will do well to bear that in mind before they make too heavy a draft on their stock of hope."

There is renewed hope among republicans everywherere in regard to the outcome of this contest. The recent Garman Catholic convention in Milwaukee has done much to fire the enthusiasm of of republicane, as well as hundreds of democrats who are too much Americanized not to fight when the language of the public schools of the country are attacked by unnaturalized foreigners. That convention will work in a different way than was expected by the men who called it together-it will help the Bennett

General Dan Sickles is conspicuously on the deck of the American ship of state. Although he is nearly 70 years of age and left a leg on the field at Gettysburg, he is as lively and patriotic as during the wer. About the confederate flage at Richmond, when Lee's monument was dedicated, the general in a memorial speech at Boston, gave his own democratic party something to think about in these patriotic words: "1 am nimoved by any rancor or aspenty or hatred towa: d the men we met in battle. But I am an American. I am a Union soldier and I love the old flag. And I say here, as I will say everywhere, that for Americans there is but one flag -the flag of Lundy's Lane and Lake Champlain and Lake Erie and New Orleans; the flag of Scott and McDonough and Perry and Jackson; the flag of Lincoln and Hancock; the flag of Grant, the flag of Washington, the only flag deserving of honor from Americans. It is the only flag which should float over this broad land. It is the flag that represents right, and in all our charity let us not forget the difference between right and wrong."

It is claimed on good authority that nearly $700,000,000 of American money passes through the hands of English bankers for use in the Argentine Republic. There is not a single American bank anywhere in that great country, and the great number of our countrymen who have settled in Buenos Ayres are obliged to do all their business through English houses. There have been attempts to start American banks down there, but the general lethargy with which the proposition has been met among New York capitalists has always resulted in a failure, and the plan has now been given up. One of the South American members of the Pan-American congress made the pointed statement that "The Yankee is the shrewdest busiuess man conceivable at home, but once out of his native country be is an easy prey for all other nations."

As the Yankees do their banking business in Central and South America, so they do their shipping with other tetions. They let other shippers take the !

Gov. Thayer Rescinds His Call-The Rea-LINCOLN, Neb., June 2.-Goy. Thayer

has issued a proclamation revoking the call for the special session of the Legis lature June 5. He says: "A legal question has arisen which may effect future results as to the legislation to be enacted by this Legislature at the proposed special session. I am advised by eminent authority, among the very highest legal authority in the State. that grave results may follow the pas laws by the Legislature in its present condition and that such laws may be declared void. The opinion is most pronounced and emphatic. The cause of these opinions is found in the fact that several districts in the State will be with out representation. The difficulty has arisen from the fact that a number of members of the Legislature have been appointed to lucrative positions in the cities and counties, and others have re moved from their districts, which fact disqualifies them from holding seats in the Legislature. The statute require that before the convening of the Legislative body in special session the vacancies shall be filled by special election. The command is imperative; thereit would be necessary to post pone the time of the meeting of the Legislature to a subsequent date and to order elections in the vacant districts, which might extend the session to mid summer. Rather than prolong the agielections to take place at this time, and to save expenses to the State, and in

AN EDITOR'S PASS.

All Is Not Sunshine in Being a Dead

One of the beauties and charms of an editor's life is his deadheading it on all occasions. No one who has never feasted on the sweets of that bliss can begin to take in the glory of its happiness. He does $100 worth of advertising for a railroad, gets a "pass" for a year, rides $25 worth, and then he is looked upon as a deadhead, or a half-blown deadhead. He puffs a concert troupe $10 worth and gets $1 in complimentaries, and is thus passed "free." If the hall is crowded he is begrudged the room he occupies, for if his complimentaries were paying tickets the troupe would be so much in pocket. He blows and puffs a church festival free to any desired extent, and does the poster printing at half rates, There is some unfriendly gossip being and rarely gets a thank you for it. It the town and community than all the rest of the population put together, and gets cursed for it all, while in many instances where a man who donates a few dollars to a Fourth of July passes "free," you know.

A Dispute About a Ruling of the Umpire in a Base Ball Came Ends in Murder.

THE BODY OF A CIRCUS PER-FORMER FOUND AT CHICAGO

Supposition That F. Was Robbed and Murdered-Five Wounds on the Head.

CHICAGO, June 2. - Another body has been found floating in the Chicago It is that of a man 28 years old, 5 feet

7 inches tall, with light hair and complexion, and a cleanly shaven face. The features are heavily pock-marked. The police think the man was murdered. They say there are indications that he was killed, robbed, and thrown into the river.

Last Saturday morning a man giving the name of West inquired at the Central Station for one Murdoch. He said that the latter was his partner, and that they were acrobats performing in a circus then at Racine, Wis. He went on to explain that the day before Murdoch and himself had gone to Rose-Cemetery, and that on the way back on the train his watch had been stolen. Arriving at the depot he jumped off hurriedly with a view of following a man whom he suspected of having taken his timepiece, and in his He did not see him again, and as he (Murdoch) had about $300 on his person, West was afraid something had happened him. He explained that he was compelled to go to Racine and could not remain over to assist in the search for his partner, but added that he would return here Monday. The body taken from the river was The attention of New York is re- that of Murdoch. Kansas Farmer Settles an Old Grudge

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 2.-Enoch Link, a blacksmith, was shot and instantly killed to-day by Frederick Sorter, at Quindore, a suburb of this city. Two years ago Link shot Sorter's cow, which had strayed upon the former's premises. This caused a bitter quarrel between the men, which had continued throughout the entire time. Link is the son of a wealthy farmer, from whom he had become estranged aud earned a living for himself, wife and three children by blacksmithing.

OLD DECISION OPPOSITE.

Contradictory Ruling on the Original Package Question.

BURLINGTON, Ia., June 2.—The Hawkeye publishes an article by Judge Huston of this city which brings to light a decision of the United States Supreme Court several years ago (reported in 114 United States, page 622) parallel in principle to the recent Iowa original package decision, in which the court reached an exactly opposite conclusion. The court held that after property imported into the State had reached its destination it was at once a commodity and became part of the general mass of property in the State without having passed out of the hands of the consignee. The former decision apparently had been overlooked.

A VICTIM OF POISONED PIES.

Frank Kuhn, a Wealthy Chicago Real Estate Dealer, Expires.

CHIBAGO June 2.-Frank Kuhn, Sr., the wealthy real estate dealer and owner of Kuhn's Park, whose entire family were mysteriously poisoned by arsenic two nights ago, died this morning about 9:30 o'clock. This makes the second death as the re sult of poison put into two pies by some unknown person. The night the pies were eaten John, the Swiss servant, died in great agony. The rest of the family are said to be in a fair way toward recovery.

WILL BUY THE CONGO LAND.

England About to Get Possession of This Fertile Country.

London, June 2.-Within a few weeks at the latest the announcement will be officially made of the purchase by the British Government of the Congo Free State, the area of which exceeds 1,290,000 square miles and the population 30,000,000. The frequent trips of King Leopold of Belgium to London during the last few weeks and his nu merous interviews with the Marquis of Salisbury and the secretary of State of the Colonies, Lord Knutsford, are due to the impending sale, which the British Prime Minister intends to spring upon the country much in the same manner as the late Lord Beacons field did the purchase of the Suez Canal shares. Lord Salisbury regards the acquisition of the Congo State, which is the richest district of the entire African continent, as a magnificent coup, which will appeal to the patriotic feelings of every Englishman and enable the government to enter the general elections with every certainty of success and consequent prolongation of the Tory tenure of office for another Parliamentary term of seven years.

This knowledge of the great cour which he had in store for the British public goes far to account for Lord Salisbury's jaunty replies to Stanley's protest concerning the culpable indifference and indolence displayed by the English government on African ques-"Mr. Stanley is not behind the cenes," the Premier declared with a knowing air and indulgent tone at a public banquet the other day. And although the government have already decided to offer Mr. Stanley the Governor-Generalship of their new dependency, yet both the ministers and King Leopold have been careful to avoid giving the great explorer any hint of the negotiations which have been going on for the past few weeks, for Stanley, although a famous explorer and a hero in many senses of the word. is utterly lacking in either tact or discretion, a fact that no one deplores more deeply than his friend and admirer. King Leopold. It is to this knowledge of Stanley's lack of discretion that is attributable the fact of his having been kept out of the secret concerning the sale of the Congo State to England.

E. P. BELLINGER, Chief of Police.

The above bright and benevolent face, is Dr. A. W. Acker, of England, discoverer of the celebrated Acker's English Remedy for Consumption and other popular preparations. Dr. Acker practised in his younger days among the middle classes of London, and was the means of doing great good, but his health failed and he found himself in the grasp of consumption, with a wife and child depending upon him for support. While in this condition, he discovered the celebrated English Remedy, saved his own life and has since saved the lives of thousands who were on the sure road to death. Any man or woman who feels a tickling in the throat, who coughs, especially in the morning, who raises or has a tight feeling across the chest, who has sharp shooting pains through the lungs or difficulty in breathing, should realize that these are the first symptoms of consumption which, if neglected, are sure to result fatally. Dr. Acker's English Remedy has cured more than one thousand persons who unquestionably had consumption and who were given up by their friends. It merits its popularity and is sold by reputable druggists in every city and town in America. You can't afford to be without it. While in this condition, he discovered the cele-

GENERAL MIDDLETON STICKS.

Refusing to Resign in Obedience to the Mandate of the Government. OTTAWA, June 2 .. - Notwithstanding the fact that the government has or-dered Sir Fred Middleton to resign or pay Bremer $4,500 for the furs he stole rom him during the Reil rebellion in the Northwest, the General positively refuses to do either, and the Minister of Militia does not know what to do. The General's term does not expire until June, 1892, not next month, as has been previously announced, and the government can not orce his resignation until that date. In he meantime the officers of the militia are declining to be inspected by the ieneral at their brigade camps, which commence next month. They threaten to resign if he is inflicted on them, and the whole militia organization is in a demoralized state. It is understood that he is acting under advice from the British war office, whose officer he is, and by whom he was loaned to Canada to take command of the Dominion militia. He threatens to make it lively for Sir Adolph Caron, minister of militia, if he attempts to force his resignation, by showing up the latter in his true colors. both as to his moral character and utter incapability of administering the Department of Militia.

Employes of the Chicago West Divisio

Railway Threaten a Tie-Up. CHICAGO, June 2.—It is highly prob ble that the starting of the West Side cable lines will be followed by a strike of the street car men, which will involve both the West and North divisions of the city. The men fully expect such a result of the opening of the new system and are preparing for it. The occasion for the trouble will be similar to that which caused the strike of two years ago by the North side drivers and conductors, who were defeated, although the West side men joined in the fight in their support. MARIE THERESE.

A Story of the Siege of Metz.

'Oh." cried Marie Therese. Sister Felicia frowned, the others giggled. They are very much like children-these sisters-and Marle Therese had been startled by a mouse that ran across the floor.

"Ah, little one, this will never do, never do!" said Sister Felicia. "You are very much of a coward, I fear." Marie Therese said nothing; she knew she was a coward, She trembled and grew sick at the sight of a wounded soldier, -and there were very many of them in Metz that summer -and every time the great cannons of Prince Karl made the doors and windows rattle she would hide her face in her hands, and wait anxiously for the answering boom from Forts Quelan and Quentin.

They always seemed to her like great hounds, baying and growling, eager to spring at the throats of the often she wondered at the use of it all; ed a pile of sand upon him and left she feit sure that it had been better him alone to sleep his last long slumfor every one before all this fighting ber, while they, with swollen tongues, and bloodshed. One morning toward the end of August a party of French under the charge of a sergeant, marched out from one of the city gates—wild-eyed, bronzed fellows they were—and softly as cats they hurried away to the German outpost, where they suspected, from the sounds of revelry the night before, that a store of good things had arrived from home. In a word, they were hungry, and bent on "spoiling the Egyptians." Warily as Indians they crept along; already they were within a few rods of the earthworks, and with a rush were upon them, bayoneting and shooting the poor Saxon boy soldiers who had failen asleeep over the goodies from mothers and sweethearts, little dreaming of what their awakening would be far away from the battle-swept fields

The triumph of the French was brief. for, roused by the noise, a squadron of Uhlans came riding fast and hard to the relief of their companions. The red-trousered soldiers fired one volley at the advancing horsemen and hurried away toward the shelter of the The French cannoneers on the advanced positions opened fire to cover their retreat, and the Prussians answering in kind, rapidly shelling the retreating detachment-very few in numbers now, and straining every nerve to reach the first angle of the French outworks.

Nearer and nearer they came; they were almost in safety; they could hear their friends cheering them on, and were about to give an answering yell, when, hissing and smoking like a very demon, a great iron shell fell not ten feet from them, Without a word they dropped on their faces and waited for what seemed certain destruction.

Marie Therese had concluded to venture on a walk that morning. Everything was so still and quiet as she passed along, the sunshine so bright and the sky so blue, that she almost forgot where she was and strayed farther and farther. At length she found herself among the forts; she even patted the great siege guns and chatted pleasantly with some of the

Suddenly she saw a puff of smoke way, way off in front, and then that dull boom that always frightened her so. In a moment there was an answering shot from the French, and then a perfect pandemonium began. She designs and can furnish monume ts any style sank to the ground in terror while the soldiers was kept too busy by the Prussian artillery to notice the little sister of charity, as she cowered down tryto make herself as inconspicious as she could. Just then the great shell, with its smoking and hissing fuse, landed ir front of the French detachment. 1 cheer arose from the Germans; the French hid their faces, and waited.

Suddenly a little gray figure was seen to dart over the parapet, and run swittly down the slope toward the sputtering shell. Even the Prussians stopped firing, and stood watching. Swiftly the little gray figure sped on, and, in a moment, bending over the terrible thing, before any one could see it, had broken the fuse, and the French were saved.

And then Frenchmen and Saxons and Prussians all together gave such a such a cheer as, I warrant, had never before rung down the Moselle; and, regardless of discipline, the soldiers of Metz came swarming over the ramparts to bear, with sobbing and cheering and laughing, poor little Marie Therese into the city.

The war passed away after a while and the soft wind as it blew bore no sounds of tumult to citizens of the famous old town. Far away from its streets and houses, in a quaint ivygrown convent in the south of France a timid little woman in gray sometimes screams as a mouse runs across the stone floor, but no one calls her a coward now, for on her breast gleams the cross of the Legion of honor. It is Marie Therese.

DEATH IN THE DESERT. The Horrible Experiences of a Party of Invading Chinese.

It has just come to light that a party of Chinese, who last week attempted to smuggle themselves into the United States from Lower California, got lost on the desert and had a terrible experience, one of the party dying from thirst and exposure. They found the frontier so closely guarded, says the San Diego Union, that they stole a march toward the eastward and got into the desert. Here they got lost and wandered aimlessly around for several days, suffering unutterable agonies. One of the Mongolians was a youth of some 14 years. He gave out under the terrible suffering and became crazy. In his ravings he imagined the blistering sand was liquid water and eagerly filled his parched mouth with the burning particles. This only added to his horrors and pretty soon he lay down to die, his companions being in too pitiful a condition to render Germans, did these forts. And very him any assistance. Here they heapplace of the horid stuff that was doled in a trackless desert. It is asserted that they at last reached the railroad and soon reached Los Angelos-minus everything they had attempted to popular remedy known. Slowly the long, hot summer days bring into the country except the clothes upon their backs. ENFORCING THE LAW.

Marshal Hogan and His Efforts to Enforce the Saloon Ordinance. Marshal Hogan has published a notifi cation to all saloon keepers, calling their attention to the provisions of a city ordinance requiring the closing of all saloons on Sunday and at eleven o'clock in the evening of other days; also the removal of screens and other obstructions from windows in places where liquous are sold. This notice was prompted by the action of several saloon keepers who have been in the babit of partly disregarding the law. Marshal Hogan is certainly in earnest in what he has published, besides he has the unqualified support of the Mayor and a large majority of the common council, who are de_ termined to enforce the Isw.

In their efforts to enforce this law Mayor St. John, the common council and Marshal Hogan will have the united support of all law and order people in the city. There is no excuse for even a technical violation of the ordinance, and no public sentiment to sustain such viclations. True, there is an element in every community, always ready to take advantage of the rights of others. This element can scarcely be called a benefit to the community. Indications That the Meeting Will be Grand Success - Over Six Thousand Dollars in Purses Offered.

The spring meeting of the Janesville

Driving Park Association opens at the fair grounds next Tuesday, and will contipue through the week. The array of horses is a good one and the entries still continue to come in. The track is receiving good attention, being rolled and scraped. The weather promises to be isir and everything points to a very successful meeting. Janesville being in the Northwestern circuit increases her chances for a large number of good horses. The northwestern circuit consists of Kansas City, Mo., Iowa City, Iowa; Terre Haute, Ind.; Janesville, Freeport, Ill., and Cedar Rapide, Iowa, and the meetings are held in the order named except those of Iowa City and Terre Haute, both of which come on the same days.

In this city $6.300 has been offered in prizes, and should the aggregate entrance money exceed the amount given in prizes, the excess will be divided pro rata among all starters. The programme has been made up as

KEEP LOVE'S BLOOM.

Advice to Girls When Youths Com

Sweethearting. Choose your sweetheart carefully wisely, and tenderly, my dear girls

Remember he is to be more than even this to you some day—he is to be your husband, for surely you are not one of the girls who have a sweetheart here, and one there, and give a little love to this one and a little love to that one, until when the real one appears the perfect bloom is gone from the peach, You girls know very quickly when a man means more than ordinary friendship for you. You have an instinct that tells you that this big. good-looking fellow has come sweethearting, and that this is the time for you to study him a little bit. Think out if his temper and yours are certain to agree well together: think out if his tastes and yours are alike, or if they can grow to be so; for you know, little women, if you want to be happy in your married life you must learn the great and wonderful virtue of adaptability. You must choose your sweetheart as you do a new gown, so that he will wear well, says the Ladies' Home Journal, but you want him for longer than a winter; he must last through the long summer days and through the winter ones, and before you put your hand in his and tell him that you are willing to fight the battle of life together, think it all over well and remember that you are choosing your sweetheart, not for a day or a year. but for all through life, and, please God, if you love each other enough, at Those Figures.

A good many stories of misfortune and trouble were revealed unexpectedly by an advertisement which a prominent business man inserted in a recent New York paper for a clerk. The advertisement stated that a business man of experience was wanted to begin at a salary of $12 a week. There were over 200 answers, and many of them were long letters from men who had formerly held positions of unquestionable importance and influence in the commercial world of New York. Some of them had been the heads of great dry goods houses, while other applications were signed by the names of firms that were once well-known throughout the country. They were all willing, and indeed anxious to get a position at the salary stated. One of them had been cashier in a New York bank, and once possessed a good deal of property, but he wrote that everything had gone against him for the past ten years, and that he was absolutely in need of the necessaries of life. Among the answers were several letters from young men who had a collegiate education and a knowledge of several foreign lan-

STEARNS & BAKER,

ROB'T W. MCLEAN,

FRANK SHERER,

Her Dress, Her Food, Her Charms, Her One Dream of Life. The Connemara girl! She weighs about 180 pounds. She wears a woolen peticoat woven by herself, and over her head and serving the purposes of both shawl and hood is a white peticoat, held in place by her left hand under her chin. The red-petticoat reaches only half-way down her calves. The stride of this child of the bog is Amazonian, yet very graceful. Her days are spent in carrying seaweed for manure, turf for the fire, and water for the illicit still. Sometimes she carries the turf a distance of two miles on her back in a wicker basket. Her load generally weighs about 100 pounds. Her stockings have no soles. and she is too poor to buy shoes. But she wears the legs of heavy steckings to protect her calves, when the edge of her heavy petticoat, wet with sea water, slaps against them. Her hands resemble a piece of tanned leather.

they are so hardened by toil.

The brown cow that browses in the bog is no more innocent than this maid of the crag and bog land. Such a wealth of color, such satin skin and such vigorous health are not seen in America. In the evening, after this maiden has worked like a donkey, she goes home and eats a supper o potatoes (boiled potatoes) nothing else. Her father or mother may drink in his chair with the consciousness of a cup of tea, but that luxury is denied to the girl. The tea costs too much. When the potatoe skins have been fed there, and nods herself to sleep in the chimney nook. Or, it may be, if there are visitors or neighbors in the house, she will lilt or hum for them to dance by on the hearthstone. This lilt is one of the quaintest things heard closely those of an Irish pipe. They are produced by the vocal organs in conjunction with the tongue. The tune is usually very rapid, and the lilter catches her breath frequently. And what do you suppose the Connemara girl's dream by night and by

COOKERY OF THE POOR.

Toothsome and Nutritious Dishes at a Minimum of Expense and Trouble. A faculty of social science has, it is stated, been instituted at the University of Brussels, and Prof. Berger, a Belgian authority in chemistry, has given course of lectures on alimentary chemistry. In the first of them he came to the ecanomic conclusion that it was possible to determine with precision the quantity of nutritive elements indispensable for the reparation of the power of a workingman, and consequently the amount of money necessary for purchasing this quantity, and that, therefore, when the other primary wants of a workingman were determined in the same way, the mini mum of salary could be fixed with scientific accuracy. Questions of taste, digestibility, and prejudice are, however, apt to be ignored in calculations of this kind; so that, although of value as a basis of information, they are far from having the practical use which their authors ascribe to them The knowledge of the housewife and of the cook, and a familiar acquain tance with the habits and surround ings and tastes of the laboring classes are necessary to give reality to such calculations. An excellent example of may be done in this way is furnished in the able and interesting chapters on the subject in the popular little handbook of domestic economy largely used in boarding schools, entitled "The Making of the Home,"written by Mrs. Bar. nett of St. Jude's, Whitechapel. The same subject is treated with great technical knowledge and power of sympathetic feeling for the poor in her chapter on "Our National Defenses." in the joint essays by herself and the Rev. S. A. Barnett, in the well-known collection of essays entitled . Practic able Socialism." The subject is one in which medical men, skilled as they are in the physiology of food and ac customed to deal with the poor both in family life and public institutions. might give great aid. That which our working classes greatly need is instruction in the art of braising, or slowly stewing at a low heat, combinations of meat scraps and of vegetables. Anything more toothsome and nutritious than the vintagers' pot au feu. which I lately tasted in the Medoc during the gathering of the grapes, cannot well be imagined. It was se delicious that a supply was ordered into the chateau for midday lunch, and it was voted by acclamation worthy of a cordoa bleu. It was made with leg of beef, onions, carrots, cabbage, and the like, and poured smoking into bowls over slices of thin bread. What a lesson is conveyed to our managers of soup-kitchens and what a
